The Frog & The Mouse

Copyright@Bedtimeshortstories.com

Once upon a time, a mouse and a frog were close friends. The frog often visited the mouse at his home and they both shared the food and provisions the mouse had stocked in abundance.

One day, the frog invited the mouse to his house. The poor mouse didn't know how to swim. The frog told him that he would make the mouse sit on his back. The mouse immediately agreed. Halfway across the stream, the frog started to get wicked thoughts of eating the mouse. So, the wicked frog dive for the bottom of the stream.

The mouse realizing too late the betrayal of the frog started to cry for help. A hawk flying above the stream saw the scene and swooped down upon the mouse. The hawk picked him up with its beak and started to fly high into the sky. The frog tied to the mouse was also taken away. The frog realized his mistake. In his greed to get more food, he had not only his good friend but also put his own life into danger.

One day they tried to pick fruit in a neighbor's garden. But their neighbor was actually an old evil witch. She shouted, "How dare you steal from my garden! I'll turn you both into rats! The couple trembled with fear. Finally the witch said, "Fine, I'll let you go." But you have to give me your first child. They were so scared that they immediately agreed and fled. Also read Beauty and the Beast. A few years later a beautiful girl was born to the farmer and his wife. Immediately an old witch came and snatched the girl from them. She called her Rapunzel and kept her in prison in a high tower. She has grown into a beautiful girl. But the most beautiful thing was her long golden hair. Rapunzel's story The only person she had ever seen was an old witch. Every day the witch would go to the foot of the tower and shout: "Rapunzel, Rapunzel, let your hair down!" Then she let her long braid out the window, and the witch clung to it and climbed upstairs. One day, a passing prince hid behind trees and watched the witch. As soon as she left, he too decided to try. "Rapunzel, Rapunzel, let your hair down," he yelled and entered her room. She was stunned to see the prince. She had never seen anyone so beautiful. The prince also fell in love with her. They began to see each other in secret every day after the witch left. Also read Sleeping Beauty. However, one day Rapunzel mistakenly said to the witch: "Oh, you are much heavier than my prince!" The witch realized what was happening. She was screaming and screaming in anger. She cut her hair off and sent it far into the woods. On the day of the prince's arrival, he found a witch waiting for him at the top of the tower. She cursed and screamed even earlier a spell that made the prince lose his sight. The prince, now blind and broken, wandered through the forest. Days later, Rapunzel found her injured in the trees. She began to cry when she saw her prince pitifully. But as soon as her tears fell on him, his wounds healed and he regained his sight! The first thing the prince saw was his beloved. They were happy to have found each other again. They went to his kingdom and lived happily ever after, away from the evil witch. Also read the story of Snow White. Here is a short visual representation of the amazing "Rapunzel Story". Watch the video story below Once upon a time in a kingdom a girl was born to a king and his queen. They called her Rapunzel. The girl has golden hair and beautiful green eyes. Little did her parents know that Rapunzel's golden hair had a magical healing power. Gothe's mother was a selfish old woman who knew about the magic of Rapunzel's hair and wanted her to stay young. The old woman kidnapped little Rapunzel and raised her in a tower deep in the forest. She never told her she was a princess. Let's read the full story to find out what happened to Rapunzel and whether she got connected with her parents or not. Princess Rapunzel The whole story of Rapunzel When Rapunzel was little, she wanted to leave the tower, but Mother Gothel refused. Every year on her birthday, she loved to look through the tower window at the lights floating in the night sky. The evil woman closed all doors and climbed the tower using Rapunzel's hair. The old lady climbs the tower with Rapunzel's long hair One day, a young thief, Flynn Ryder, went to the tower to find shelter because he had stolen something special from the king and the palace of the kings, the guards chased him. Rapunzel knocked him out with a frying pan as Flynn Rider climbed the tower. When she secretly examined it, she found a crown in her bag. When Flynn Rider found himself tied to a chair with Rapunzel's long hair. Tomorrow was her 18th birthday, she made a deal with him and asked him to take her to the lights and she then gave him the bag. When Flynn agreed to help Rapunzel, she used her hair to climb down the tower. Rapunzel climbs down from the tower with her magic hair It was the first time she was outside of her tower. When her feet touched the grass, she almost burst with excitement. Both enjoyed their adventures but were hunted down by the Royal Guard and Mother Gothel. One morning Rapunzel arrived in a beautiful kingdom and saw a castle high above. She went straight for it. Near her castle in the kingdom, Rapunzel saw an image of the king, queen, and their child known as the lost princess. The little princess had the same golden hair and green eyes as Rapunzel. She was surprised to see it. That evening she went with Flynn to the floating lights, which were actually lanterns. Then the two looked into each other's eyes and realized that they had fallen in love. Later, Flynn and Rapunzel were separated. Mother Gothel lied to Rapunzel that Flynn only wanted the crown, but now she knew the reality of Mother Gothel. She told her that she knew she was a lost princess. Suddenly, Flynn arrived there to save Rapunzel. But she was injured by Mother Gothel and stopped Rapunzel from healing Flynn. Anyway, Flynn got up and cut Rapunzel's hair. As a result, Mother Gothel turned into an old woman and crumbled to dust. Rapunzel was free now, but Flynn was dying. A single drop of tears fell from Rapunzel's eyes onto Flynn, healing him. The two then returned to the palace. The king and queen hugged their lost princess. The entire kingdom celebrated the return of their princess by releasing hundreds of lanterns, which were the lights that guided them home. Conclusion The story of Rapunzel is very popular children. They wanted their child more than anything else. Finally, their wish came true - the wife will have a child! Thank you, Lily, 13, Florida, USA. From the window on the second floor of their small house, the wife could see the garden next door. There were such tender, fresh rows of plants and flowers! But no one dared to go. garden wall to see them up close. Because the garden belonged to a witch! One day the wife looked at the garden from the window. How fresh those big green heads of lettuce looked! "This is exactly what I need to eat!" said the wife to her husband. "You must go and bring it to me. But we can't! said the carpenter. "You know as well as I do that the garden belongs to the witch who lives next door. If I can't get this salad," said the wife, "I won't eat anything! I'm going to die!" What could the carpenter do? Late at night he climbed over the garden fence. With very quiet steps he picked up a head of lettuce. The wall. His wife immediately ate the lettuce. But when he ate the lettuce, she just wanted more! If she couldn't get more lettuce, she said she wouldn't eat at all during the night the carpenter climbed up the garden wall again. He took another head of lettuce. Suddenly, a high, loud voice rang out. "STOP! What are you thinking of doing?" "I... um... I buy my wife a salad," said the carpenter. Thanks to Lily, 13 years old, Florida, USA "You're a thief!" Witch. "You'll pay for this!" "Please!" said the carpenter. "My wife has a child. She saw your salad and really wanted it. Why should I be worried?" the witch exclaimed. "I'll do anything!" said the carpenter. He thought, "Maybe I can build something for her." Are you saying you'll do something? the witch said. - That's what he said. "Good!" the witch said. "That's the problem. Come on, eat as much salad as you want. Your wife is having a girl. And when that happens, the baby will be mine!" "Which?!", said the carpenter. "I would never agree to that!" "You already did it!" the witch said. And she laughed wickedly. Chapter 2 Tower Soon the wife gave birth to a daughter, as the witch had predicted. To protect the child from the witch, the carpenter built a high tower in the depths of the forest. He built a staircase leading to a room above, a room with one window. He and his wife took turns staying with the child. A Thank you 123rf But the witch had a magic ball. The ball showed her where the child was in the top room of the tower. One day, when the carpenter and his wife were at home, she cast a spell on them. They fell into a deep, deep sleep. And then the witch went to the tower. In the upper room, the witch said to the child: "I will call you Rapunzel. Because that is the name of the salad that brought you to me. Now Rapunzel, you are mine! But the witch did not know how to take care of the child. Rapunzel grew into a child, and the witch does not even know how to cut hair. The girl's blond hair grew longer and longer every day. Thank you12, Indonesia All the witch could do was keep the child locked in a room at the very top of the tower. She told the girl that the world was a very bad place. So she couldn't leave the tower. When she grew up, Rapunzel repeatedly told the witch: "I have nothing to do here! Why do I have to stay in this tower all the time? And the witch shouted back: "I told you so many times! The world is very bad. Now go study and shut up. "But is it really so bad? Sometimes I hear the people below laughing," said Rapunzel sometimes. At such times the witch cried, "How many times must I repeat myself?" Don't listen to anything you see or hear there. The world is much worse than you think! You're going to stay in this tower forever, Rapunzel. So get used to it!" On her 12th birthday, Rapunzel told the witch, "I don't care what you say anymore! I'm so tired of being here alone all the time! When you leave, I'll open the door. I'll make a hole. I'll run down the stairs and get out no matter what you say! "Think again!" said the witch, the tower collapsed. She closed the door. Now Rapunzel couldn't escape! Chapter 3 The Singing Voice Until then Rapunzel's hair had grown very, very tall. Rapunzel, Rapunzel! Let her hair down! From 123rf Rapunzel will throw her long blonde braid out the window. The witch caught her hair like a rope. And that witch climbed the tower wall to the window in Rapunzel's room. Five more long years passed. Poor Rapunzel! She knew she had to stay in her room. She could only sing sad songs through the window. Sometimes the birds in the treetops joined her singing. Then she would feel...better. Thank you Karen, age 9, Georgia, USA, but not much. One day the prince was driving through the forest. He heard a beautiful singing voice. ~ Where did it come from? He drove closer and closer to the sound. Finally he reached the tower. "This is strange!" he said, looking at the wall of the tower. There is no door below. However, someone is singing upstairs. How do I get in or out? Every day the prince returned to the tower. There was something about that voice that attracted him. Who is the young woman who sang upstairs? Will he ever meet her? Once, when the prince was climbing a mountain, he saw an old woman standing under the tower. He jumped behind a tree to hide. It was a witch! He heard her cry, "Rapunzel, Rapunzel! Let your hair down! A long blond braid was thrown out of the window to the very top. The old woman grabbed the scythe. And she climbed up the wall to the window at the top of the tower. "Aha!" the prince said. And so it happened! He waited. Thanks to Hanshal, 6 years old, Karnataka, India. After a while, the scythe was again thrown out the window. The prince was waiting. He climbed the tower. In a voice that sounded like a witch, he exclaimed, "Rapunzel, Rapunzel! Let your hair down! A few moments later, the same long blond scythe jumped out of the window. "Managed!" The prince considered. He climbed up the wall of the tower. You can be sure that Rapunzel was very surprised to see the prince entering through her window. She had never seen anyone but a witch before, and never a man! "Who are you?" she said fearfully. "Do not worry!" the prince said. "I am a friend." "But I don't know you," Rapunzel said. "I feel as if I know you," said the prince. "Since I hear you sing songs from here every day. You're beautiful! And I also like it when the birds sing along with you. "Yes, I like it too," Rapunzel said. "Maybe that's the only thing I like because I have to stay in the same old tower all my life." Rapunzel told the prince about the witch. She told him that since the world is so bad, he should always stay in a room in the tower. "But the world is not as bad as they say!" said the prince. He told Rapunzel about flowers, holidays, games and gardens. He told her about puppies, puddles, strawberries and secrets. Many hours have passed. Finally, Rapunzel said that she had to go - the witch could return at any moment! "Very well," said the prince. But he won't be back tomorrow. Rapunzel threw her scythe out the window and the prince went downstairs. Thank you, Zainab, 9 years old, UK. The next day, the prince climbed into Rapunzel's room again. He said, "I have a surprise for you." He brought her strawberries. After tasting the strawberries, Rapunzel thought, "Now I know that I was told a lie." The world can be a very nice place! I need to get out of this tower as soon as possible. But how? Thank you Srinidhi, age 12, California, USA Chapter 4 The Escape Plan One day the prince said, "If only you could get out of this tower. When I fall, how can you get down?" Thank you Elizabeth, age 12, Arizona, USA "I know!" said Rapunzel. "Bring me a ball of silk every time. I can weave a ladder out of silk. The silk is folded so finely that the witch cannot see it. We can both get out of here. - That's all! the prince said. He then approached Rapunzel. We will both be free. When we are at peace, will you marry me? "Yes," said Rapunzel. "I will." Every day after that, the prince brought a ball of silk to Rapunzel. Over time she wove silklong stairs. On Rapunzel's 18th birthday, the witch spoke to her in a harsh voice. "Before you open your mouth this time," said the witch, "I'm going to get it. I'm sick of hearing you talk about being alone in the tower. It won't change. Rapunzel! Forever!" "Who says I'm alone in a room all the time?" said Rapunzel. "What?!" the witch said, "What was the matter with you?" "No one!" - Rapunzel immediately said in horror. - I think no one else but you! The witch didn't believe her. She looked around the room for any indication that someone else was there. Soon she found the stairs. She held them high in the air. She cried, "What does that mean?" "My friend the prince brought me silk," said Rapunzel. - You will not see this prince again! - shouted the witch. She pulled out a knife. The beautiful braid was cut off! The witch held the braid in one hand and laughed a malicious laugh. Rapunzel was thrown into the distant wilderness by her magic. The witch then stayed in the tower room. She knew the prince would be back soon. Thanks to 123rf Chapter 5 The Last Rise The witch didn't keep her waiting long. Soon the prince called from the bottom of the tower in a voice that must have sounded like her own, "Rapunzel, Rapunzel, let your hair down!" "Yes, he did!" thought the witch. She held on to one end of Rapunzel's braid and threw it out the window. The prince grabbed it and climbed up. He was very surprised to see a witch! "Where's Rapunzel?" he cried, "What have you done to her?" "You will never see Rapunzel again!" cried the witch. The witch pushed the prince so hard that he lost his grip on the window. Down, down! Thanks to the artist, Yes The prince landed on a bush below, but the bushes had sharp thorns. Several spikes pierced his eyes. The prince was blind! Chapter 6 The Desert For two years, the poor blind prince wandered the world in search of Rapunzel. He called her from morning to night, but it didn't make sense. Finally he reached the desert. One day he heard a beautiful singing voice. "Ouch!" - thought I know that voice! It was his dear Rapunzel! He moved closer and closer to the voice he knew so well. Thanks to 8-year-old Aron from India "My Prince!" Rapunzel shouted when she saw him. They both hugged each other tightly. Two tears of joy welled up in the Prince's eyes. Suddenly he saw again! And what happened next, well, you can guess! The prince and Rapunzel returned to the kingdom where the prince lived. They got married as soon as they could. The prince became the king of the country and Rapunzel became the queen. They both lived happily ever after. Thank you 123rf 123rf
